Notes by the way.

Australia has sent upwards of 6000 men to the war.

A census will be taken in the Australian Colonies in 1901.

Four foreign experts are now retained in Japanese employ.

The fight at Spion Kop is referred to in Australian telegrams as 'a perfect inferno.'

It is believed that the marriage of the Crown Prince of Japan will take place in April or May next.

The Russian newspapers predict the gradual partition of China. Some of the journals also prophesy a Russo-Japanese alliance.

The warships in the harbour were decorated to-day and salutes were fired at noon in celebration of the birthday of George Washington.

The following Russian war-vessels arrived at Nagasaki from Corea on the 11th inst.:—Natori, Sissoi Veliki, Admiral Korniloff, and Bolsh.

The Japanese statistical returns show a large increase in imports last month as compared with the corresponding in 1899, and a falling in exports.

The U. S. transport Catlin (popularly known during the Manila blockade days as 'the mutton ship') has gone to Sydney for repairs and general overhaul—and Australian mutton.

The appointment of Mr. W. Robinson, M.P. for Eisted Cere, to the Address in Reply, was to the effect that the Transvaal war is unnecessary and unjust, and ought to be ended on the basis of the recognition of the independence of the Transvaal Republic.

In the House of Commons, Mr. A. J. Balfour has openly declared that Major-General Sir William Buller, the late Commander-in-Chief at Cape Town, did not supply the War Office with information as to the resources of the Boers, or as to the necessity for extensive British preparations.

New South Wales has won the Sheffield Shield for Australian Intercolonial Cricket. Victoria was beaten twice and South Australia once by the winning team, which went down once to South Australia.

The late play Robert the Devil in England, the benefit of the War Relief Fund.

We would call attention to the very appropriate article entitled 'Floundering,' which appears elsewhere. We hope the criticisms of the N. C. Daily News will be sent to every member of the Articles Club, and that it will help to dissolve the spell that Le Feng-luh has cast over a certain class of parlous busy-bodies in England.

Italy and Turkey. A rupture of the friendly relations between Italy and Turkey is reported to be probable, owing to the refusal of the Turkish Government to surrender Sylvia Gendel, an Italian subject who was placed in a Turkish officer's hands. The refusal is based on the allegation that the lady has embraced Islamism.

Dr. G. E. Morrison. Dr. G. E. Morrison, the Peking correspondent of The Times, arrived in Hongkong yesterday, from Australia, by the N. Y. K. steamer Yokohama Maru. It will be remembered that he left China for Europe, via Ceylon, India, and Japan, at the end of last year. During his stay in England, he made the acquaintance of many important personages, including members and ex-members of the Cabinet, the Permanent Heads of Government Departments, &c. We understand he is going on to Tokio before returning to Peking. The presence of an impartial correspondent is much needed at Peking at the present time. British interests can best be safeguarded when the British Minister has the representative of The Times, so to speak, at his elbow.

HE ONLY REPEATS WHAT HAS BEEN SAID AROUND THE GLOBE. It has been demonstrated repeatedly in every state in the Union and in many foreign countries that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a certain preventive and cure for croup. It has become the universal remedy for that disease. M. V. Fisher of Liberty, W. Va., only repeats what has been said around the globe when he writes: 'I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in my family for several years and always with perfect success. We believe that it is not only the best cough remedy, but that it is a sure cure for croup. It has saved the lives of our children a number of times. This remedy is for sale by all Dealers, Watkins & Co., General Agents.'

Muscular Development Extraordinary. A man recently knocked down an elephant, a lion, and a rhinoceros. He was an American.

The Plague.

In Honolulu, as in Japan, five is being used as a disinfectant in plague districts. Blocks of houses were destroyed by fire, and the bodies of plague victims are incinerated.

Fatality at a Fire.

At a quarter past two o'clock, the Fire Brigade turned out to a fire which originated in a tailor's shop on the ground floor of No. 25 Queen's Road West. Before the fire was extinguished the ground and first floors were gutted and the top floor was damaged by water. The firemen found the charred body of a woman on the first floor, and had it removed to the mortuary. It was afterwards ascertained that the husband of the woman, when the alarm was raised, received the child from his wife, and rushed downstairs thinking his wife would follow. He proceeded to the Police Station and reported the fire, never thinking his wife was still in the burning building. The damage is believed to be covered by insurance, but as the insurer has gone to Canton, particulars cannot be ascertained. The origin of the conflagration is unknown.

THE WAR.

THE RELIEF OF LADYSMITH.

BOERS LEAVING NATAL.

DESPERATE FIGHTING IN THE ORANGE FREE STATE.

BRITISH ATTACK REPULSED WITH HEAVY LOSS.

OFFICERS SUFFER TERRIBLY.

GENERAL HECTOR MACDONALD DANGEROUSLY WOUNDED.

(From our Special Correspondent.)

London, February 22, 11.0 a.m.

The telegrams coming through from South Africa state that Ladysmith is virtually relieved, although the actual entry of General Buller's column is not yet officially announced. For several days, the Boer forces have been withdrawn from their defensive positions between the Tugela River and Ladysmith, their artillery has been sent back, large bodies of men have been sent over the passes into the Orange Free State, and everything points to a complete evacuation of Natal. General Buller's column has been pushing forward to take advantage of the best positions and to harass the retreating Boers.

In the Orange Free State there has been terrible fighting. Lord Roberts is endeavouring to isolate and capture Cronje's command. He has inflicted severe loss upon the retreating force.

For three days there was continuous desperate fighting, Cronje striving to extricate himself without being compelled to surrender. In one combined attempt to carry the hurriedly-entrenched position, the British troops were repulsed with heavy losses, the Highland regiments again receiving terrible punishment.

Ten officers were killed and forty wounded. I am sorry that General Hector Macdonald, commanding the Highland Brigade, was dangerously wounded.

[Our Special Telegram to-day probably has reference to the fight at Paardeburg previously reported. Apparently, Cronje, driven to bay, has succeeded in preventing the capture of the main body of his army. It was mentioned in telegrams during the week that the Highland Brigade had joined the force that had gone in pursuit of Cronje, leaving the Guards Brigade, under Lord Methuen, to occupy Kimberley and complete the work on the Western frontier. Eager to avenge past losses, we can understand how the Highland regiments had rushed upon the Boer army, and it is evidence of the severity of the fight that so many officers were placed hors de combat, including General Hector Macdonald. The regiments composing the Brigade are:—

Although the Highlanders appear to have been in the forefront of the fight, it must be presumed that the other infantry battalions in the pursuing force shared equally in the perils of the day. Further details of the fighting in the Orange Free State will be awaited with much interest.

General Hector Macdonald, who is reported to be dangerously wounded, has a fine record. Starting life in humble circumstances, he was for some years a draper's assistant in Inverness, the capital of the Highlands. He soon tired of the dull monotony of this business, and as a private joined the Gordon Highlanders, with whom he served in the Afghan War in 1879-80. He was present at the affair at Kandahar (mentioned in despatches), in the engagement at Charasid on 6th October, 1879 (mentioned in despatches), with the Malad Expedition in the operations around Cabul in December, 1879, and in the engagement at Charasid on 24th April, 1880; he accompanied Sir Frederick Roberts in the famous march to Cabul, and was present at the reconnaissance of 31st August and at the battle of Candahar. It was for his distinguished gallantry at this battle that Macdonald (then a sergeant) was given his commission as Second Lieutenant. He was promoted to the rank of Major in 1881, and was present at the battle of Paardeburg on 26th October, 1899, when he was severely wounded. He was afterwards promoted to the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel, and was present at the battle of Tlokoeng on 28th November, 1899, when he was again severely wounded. He was promoted to the rank of Colonel in 1900, and was present at the battle of Paardeburg on 26th October, 1899, when he was severely wounded. THE NEW FRENCH REMEDY.
THERAPION

This successful and highly popular remedy, as employed in the Continental Hospitals by Alcock, Boissac, Albert, Bouchard, and others, combines all the elements to be sought in a medicine of the kind and surpasses everything hitherto employed.

THERAPION No. 1
is a remarkably short time, often a few days only,
removes all discharges from the urinary organs, restores the normal action of the kidneys, and eliminates every poisonous matter from the body.

THERAPION No. 2
for impurities of the blood, scurvy, gonorrhoea, spots, itching, pains and swelling of the joints, acute dysentery, and all diseases for which it has been found to be so effective in removing toxins, and in restoring the normal action of the urinary organs, and in the destruction of uric acid and urate of soda.

THERAPION No. 3
for nervous exhaustion, waste of vitality, harassing dreams, and all the distressing consequences of early error, excess, residence in hot, unhealthy climates, &c. It possesses surprising power in restoring strength and vigor to the debilitated system.

THERAPION is sold by all Chemists and Druggists throughout the World.
Chinese and Japanese are required to observe above Trade Mark, which is a fac-simile of word
"THERAPION" in a circle, and is printed on the Stamp (in white letters on a red ground) affixed to every package by order of Mr. S. J. Watson, Hon.
Commissioner, and without which it is a forgery.

Sold by A. S. Watson & Co., Limited,
Hongkong, China and Manila. 231
